5.1.2*Report On International Yoga Day 2024

Dr. Ambedkar College Of Law celebrated International Day of Yoga. The theme for International Yoga Day 2024 is “Yoga for Self and Society.” This theme emphasizes the two-fold benefits of yoga practice: enhancing personal well-being and fostering a more positive and harmonious society. The Chief Guest on the occasion was Principal Dr. Pramod J Herode. The students and faculty members of teaching and non teaching have done all the Yoga Asanas and Pranayam which were performed as according to prescribed guidelines defined by Mr.

Principal Dr. Pramod J Herode while addressing the staff and students present in the Yoga session, emphasise the importance of yoga in the present day lifestyle which is causing many diseases like Hypertension, Sugar, Obesity and many other life consuming diseases. Student community is engrossed in the digital world with little or no attention to physical and mental well being. He stressed upon making it a regular practice to live a healthy life which will leads to strong physical and Mental health. He appreciated the efforts of sports wing and NSS for organizing the event in a very smooth and organized manner.

A Blood donation camp was organized by our NSS unit, in 25/02/2019 which more than 120 units of blood was donated by both students and the staff members of our Dr.Ambedkar College Of Law. It is a way of Dr.Ambedkar College Of Law; Aurangabad gesture in bringing a ray of hope to contribute to the serious problems of acute shortage of blood in India faces a blood shortage of 3 million units. The problem can be addressed if an additional two percent of Indians donate blood, as opened by the Health experts. We need 12 million units of blood every year but just about nine million units are being donated. Our College has been religiously organizing blood donation camps every year and students and the faculty members come forward voluntarily to donate blood. While addressing to people at the camp our NSS volunteers brought awareness in them about shortage of blood and why we must donate blood every year, to help the persons requiring blood. Blood donation can save lives of innumerable persons. Donation of blood is very critical and crucial for saving lives many patients and those who have met with accidents. It is as such a great service or contribution to the society and people living in it.

Outcome :

30 Students donated their blood in the interest of humanity, Hon'ble Principal Dr. Behra Sir & NSS coordinator assistant professor Pramod Herode Sir, Asst. Professor Vinod Patil and rest of the faculty members has initiated the important role for organising such camp. After blood donation students were given fruit and juice. All were very jubilant and enthusiastic for making such a contribution.

Report

“ A Lecture Organised on the occasion of World Mental Health Day” on 10/10/ 2019

Under IQAC on the topic of “ Suicide Prevention with the help of Meditation”

Resource person – Bhante Dr. Chandrabodhi

Chairperson - Principal Dr. Pramod J Herode sir

Coordinator - Asst. prof. Anna Dhawale, Asst. prof. Kiran Bhalerao

Report of the Session

The students of the college are given fist for meditation through the programme Meditation in Action coordinated by Dr. Bhante chandrabodhi .This Meditation is based on the Mindfulness technique to experience self-awareness, greater focus and silence. To inculcate the practice of meditation in the everyday life on the occasion of World mental health Day.

In the begining Dr. Bhante chandrabodhi addressed the students explaining what Meditation and Action Movement was and its usefulness in one"s life. He stressed on mindfulness “a technique when we train the mind to be thoughtless- all the above helps are to lead to self-awareness and a deep concentration and silence. The sessions of meditation are conducted regularly. It begins every year on the occasion of World Mental Health Day.

To enable the people experience a deep awareness

To boost up one's energy, dynamism, skills and values

To perform and deliver selfless service to the humanity

Scope: Meditation is a charismatic movement with specific activities to inculcate meditation, awareness, values and concern for the students- the future of the nation.

Outcome: Students experience attitudinal change and transformation to enhance holistic development of mind, body and soul. The practice helps a lot to refine the students and make them realize the importance of mental and spiritual health and stress free life. A few minutes of yoga during the day can be a great way to get rid of stress that accumulates daily in both the body and mind. Yoga Postures, Pranayama and Meditation are effective techniques to release stress. Meditation is relaxation which gives calm mind, good concentration and rejuvenation of the body and mind etc. Yoga is a great remedy to remove tensions. The renowned Bhante Dr. Chandrabodhi ( Principal) of Nalanda college has delivered a talk on suicidal tendency among youth, and stressed upon the importance of meditation. He has also explained remedies for personal health problems to the participants with lot of patience. On oct 2019 Dr. Ambedkar college of Law celebrated "World Mental health Day" by organizing a special Meditation session in which 30 student, teachers and non-teaching staffs along with Principal Dr. Pramod J. Herode Chairperson, Dr. Gatha Nerlikar IQAC Coordinator Asst. prof Anna Dhawale coordinator, Asst. prof Kiran Bhalerao. The main aim was to raise awareness and ignite a passion for mental fitness among the students and teachers. In the present day when students face stress, tension, fear etc. simple „Meditation“ can help dispel these.

Report on ICT under IQAC conducted on 1st December 2023

Lecture delivered by Advocate Manikrao Wankhede on E-filing under the chairmanship of Hon'ble Principal Dr PJ Herode.

Dr Ambedkar College of Law under IQAC has organized a lecture on E-filing under ICT on 1st December 2023.

Adv. Manikrao Wankhede guided the participants regarding the pros and cons of the E-filing under ICT and stressed on the requirement of training of the same to the lawyers to cope up with the technological advancements. He not only discussed the details of E-filing but also enlightened the participants about the difference between the e-filing and paper filing.

He discussed several pros and cons associated with e-filing. Following are the excerpts of his lecture regarding pros and cons. Pros such as saving of time, money, and transportation costs, reduction of delays in retrieving court documents, convenience of accessing the filed documents from home or the office. The E-filing is eco-friendly as it reduces the carbon emission and enables the court to function more efficiently in the administration of justice.

He also focussed on the disadvantages which can lead to limitation and data leaks because of technical glitches and increase in cost as a considerable amount is required to invest in the computer and internet.

He also informed the participants about their requirement to get them acquainted to technological development along with the law.

Outcome of Event:-

The lecture was attended by more than 22 participants and a healthy discussion between the resource person and participants showed the inclination of the participants towards to getting them updated to technical knowhow as well.

ACADAMIC VISIT REPORT ON HIGH COURT AURANGABAD

Date: 16 .04.2024.

Venue: HIGH COURT VISIT, AURANGABAD

Dr. Ambedkar College of Law, Nagsenvana, Aurangabad organised the Bombay High Court Bench Aurangabad visit for the students to have the practical approach of the filing, pleading and appearing in front of a bench. Students To understand the bridge between the practical and theoretical approach of Law and awaking oneself of the Court proceedings and basic understanding of the pleadings and filings. The students and faculty of Dr. Ambedkar College of Law, Nagsenvana, Aurangabad started their journey by morning 10.00 am to visit Bombay High Court bench Aurangabad. The students reached the location the students were assignment groups and each group consisted of a head who would be given a certain Court room to Observe the Court Working procceding . While the students were observing the court proceedings the faculties met the Bombay High Court bench Aurangabad Registrar General - ----- and discussed the future possibilities for the students. The students later were asked to interact with others Stops of high court. Further the students were fortunate enough to interact and understand about the practical provision and functioning of High Court Proceedings.

On 20 th Oct. 2023 a group of 30 students of LL.B. final year students of the Dr. Ambedkar College of Law, Nagsenvana, Aurangabad had the opportunity to visit the Regional Forensic Science Laboratory. The purpose of the visit was to gain practical insights into the various branches of forensic science and understand their applications in solving crimes and providing justice. The visit covered three major areas: Biological Sciences, Chemical Sciences, and Physical Sciences. Each area provided valuable knowledge related to different aspects of forensic investigation.

Biological Sciences Anthropology:

During the visit, the students had the opportunity to interact with forensic anthropologists. They were given a presentation on the role of anthropology in forensic investigations, especially in cases involving the recovery and identification of human remains. The anthropologists explained various techniques used to estimate age, sex, stature, and ancestry anthropologists explained various techniques used to estimate age, sex, stature, and ancestry from skeletal remains. They also discussed the importance of understanding cultural contexts and rituals related to death and burial practices.

Biology:

The biology section of the Forensic Science Department showcased the importance of DNA analysis in criminal investigations. The students were introduced to the basics of DNA structure and its role as the genetic blueprint of living organisms. They learned about techniques such as polymerase chain reaction (PCR) and DNA sequencing used to extract, amplify, and analyze DNA samples. The department also demonstrated how DNA profiles are compared to identify suspects and establish links between individuals and crime scenes.

Serology:

The serology section focused on the analysis of bodily fluids, particularly blood. Students were introduced to various serological tests used to identify blood groups, detect the presence of specific antigens and antibodies, and determine the origin of biological fluids found at crime scenes. They observed how ELISA and other serological techniques were employed to test samples for the presence of infectious diseases, such as HIV/AIDS and hepatitis. The importance of proper evidence collection and preservation was also emphasized.

Chemical SciencesChemistry:

In the chemistry section, the students were introduced to the role of forensic chemists in analyzing different types of physical and chemical evidence. They learned about techniques such as chromatography and spectroscopy used to identify and analyze substances found at crime scenes. The department showcased how chemical analysis can provide crucial evidence in cases involving arson, drug-related crimes, and toxic substances.

Excise, Explosives, and Narcotics:

The department dedicated specific sections to the analysis of excise (alcohol and tobacco- related) substances, explosives, and narcotics. Students were shown how sophisticated equipment and chemical tests are used to identify and analyze these substances. They learned about the classification of narcotics, the detection of explosive residues, and the examination of alcohol levels in forensic cases such as drunk driving incidents.

Prohibition and Toxicology:

The prohibition and toxicology section focused on the detection and analysis of drugs and toxins in biological samples. Students were introduced to the processes involved in toxicology testing, including sample preparation, extraction, and instrumental analysis. They learned about the effects of drugs on the human body, drug metabolism, and the importance of toxicology in determining cause of death and detecting drug-related crimes.

Physical Sciences Ballistics:

The ballistics section provided insights into the analysis of firearms and their ammunition. Students were shown various types of firearms, including handguns, rifles, and shotguns. They learned about the examination of bullets, cartridge cases, and gunshot residues. The experts explained the principles of ballistics and how the examination of firearm-related evidence can help determine the type of weapon used and establish links between suspects and crime scenes.

Physics:

The physics section showcased the application of physics principles in forensic investigations. Students were introduced to concepts such as trajectory analysis, bloodstain pattern analysis, and accident reconstruction. They learned how physics can provide valuable insights into the dynamics of crime scenes, helping investigators understand the sequence of events and reconstruct the circumstances surrounding a crime.

Computer Forensics

The computer forensics section focused on the examination and analysis of digital evidence. Students were shown the tools and techniques used to recover and analyze data from computers, mobile devices, and other digital media. They learned about the importance of data integrity, digital evidence preservation, and the role of computer forensics in solving cybercrimes and retrieving valuable information for criminal investigations.

The field visit to the Forensic Science Department provided the students with a comprehensive understanding of the various branches of forensic science and their applications in solving crimes. The visit offered valuable insights into the role of biology, chemistry, and physical sciences in forensic investigations. The hands-on experience and interaction with experts in the field enhanced the students' knowledge and sparked their interest in pursuing careers in forensic science. The visit proved to be an enriching experience and highlighted the significance of interdisciplinary approaches in solving complex criminal cases. Overall, the field visit to the Forensic Science Department was a successful and educational experience, providing the students with a practical understanding of the role of biological sciences, chemical sciences, and physical sciences in forensic investigations.

The field visit to the Forensic Science Department was highly beneficial for research purposes.

1. Exposure to Practical Applications: The visit provided firsthand exposure to the practical applications of various scientific disciplines within the field of forensic science. This exposure can serve as a valuable reference for future research projects, allowing researchers to understand the real-world context and challenges associated with different forensic techniques.
2. Networking Opportunities: During the visit, students had the opportunity to interact with experts and professionals in the field of forensic science. Building connections and networking with professionals can be advantageous for future research collaborations, obtaining guidance, and accessing resources and facilities that may be helpful for research projects.
3. Access to Specialized Equipment and Facilities: Forensic Science Departments often possess state-of-the-art equipment and specialized facilities required for forensic analysis. The visit allowed the students to witness and potentially utilize such equipment, which can be highly advantageous for researchers who may need access to specific instruments or techniques for their research projects.
4. Research Ideas and Inspiration: Witnessing the various branches of forensic science and their applications can serve as a source of inspiration for research ideas. The visit may have sparked new research questions or highlighted potential areas of study within forensic science that the students may want to explore further.
5. Knowledge Expansion: The visit provided the students with a comprehensive understanding of the different branches of forensic science. This expanded knowledge base can be beneficial when conducting literature reviews, designing research methodologies, and formulating research questions within the field of forensic science.

6. Practical Skills Development: The hands-on experience gained during the visit, such as observing techniques, handling equipment, and witnessing forensic analyses, can enhance the students' practical skills. These skills can be directly applicable to research projects that involve forensic analysis or require a basic understanding of forensic techniques.

7. Interdisciplinary Perspectives: Forensic science is an interdisciplinary field that combines various scientific disciplines. The visit exposed the students to the interdisciplinary nature of forensic research, emphasizing the importance of integrating knowledge from different fields. This perspective can inspire interdisciplinary research collaborations and foster innovative approaches to addressing research questions.

In summary, the field visit to the Forensic Science Department was highly useful for research purposes. It provided exposure to practical applications, networking opportunities, access to specialized equipment and facilities, research ideas and inspiration, knowledge expansion, practical skills development, and interdisciplinary perspectives. All these factors contribute to enhancing the quality and depth of future research within the field of forensic science.

Infrastructure Analysis of the Forensic Science Department

During the field visit to the Forensic Science Department, the students had the opportunity to observe and assess the infrastructure of the department. Here is an analysis of the infrastructure based on the different areas of forensic science:

1. Biological Sciences:

The infrastructure for biological sciences within the department was well-established and equipped. The laboratory spaces were organized and properly maintained, providing a conducive environment for conducting various biological analyses. The presence of advanced equipment, such as DNA sequencers, PCR machines, and serological testing facilities, indicated a commitment to staying at the forefront of technology in the field. The availability of appropriate safety measures, including biosafety cabinets, personal protective equipment, and waste management systems, demonstrated a strong emphasis on laboratory safety.

2. Chemical Sciences:

The infrastructure for chemical sciences appeared comprehensive and efficient. The department had separate laboratories for different branches, including chemistry, excise, explosives, narcotics, and prohibition. Each laboratory was equipped with necessary chemicals, reagents, and instrumentation for analysis and identification. The storage and handling of potentially hazardous substances seemed well-managed, with proper ventilation systems and safety protocols in place. Overall, the chemical sciences infrastructure reflected a commitment to ensuring accurate and reliable analysis of chemical evidence.

3. Physical Sciences:

The infrastructure for physical sciences, particularly ballistics, physics, and computer forensics, was well-designed and adequately equipped. The ballistics section had a dedicated area for the examination and analysis of firearms, ammunition, and related evidence. It had specialized equipment for firearm comparison, bullet trajectory analysis, and gunshot residue testing. The physics section showcased various tools and resources for bloodstain pattern analysis, accident reconstruction, and other physics-based forensic techniques. The computer forensics section had advanced computers, software, and tools for digital evidence examination and analysis.

Overall, the department's infrastructure demonstrated a commitment to providing a conducive environment for forensic analysis and research. The presence of well-equipped laboratories, advanced instrumentation, and specialized facilities indicated a focus on accuracy, reliability, and efficiency in forensic investigations. The infrastructure also reflected a strong emphasis on safety measures and compliance with relevant regulations and protocols.

In addition to the laboratory infrastructure, the department's administrative facilities appeared organized and functional. The presence of dedicated office spaces, meeting rooms, and storage areas contributed to the smooth operation of the department's activities. The availability of a well-maintained evidence storage facility, with appropriate security measures, was also notable.

It is worth mentioning that during the field visit, the students did not have an opportunity to extensively analyze the entire infrastructure of the department. The analysis presented here is based on the observations made during the visit and may not capture every aspect of the department's infrastructure. However, the overall impression was that the Forensic Science Department possessed a robust and well-equipped infrastructure to support its various areas of specialization in forensic science.

Overall Conclusion

The field visit to the Forensic Science Department provided the students with a comprehensive understanding of the different branches of forensic science and their applications in solving crimes. The visit offered valuable insights into the role of biological sciences, chemical sciences, and physical sciences in forensic investigations. It was evident that the department's infrastructure was well-designed and equipped to support various forensic analyses, research activities, and administrative functions. The infrastructure analysis revealed that the department had well-organized laboratory spaces with advanced equipment and instrumentation. The presence of specialized facilities, such as DNA analysis labs, serology testing areas, and ballistics examination rooms, demonstrated a commitment to staying at the forefront of technology and providing accurate and reliable forensic analysis. The implementation of safety measures and compliance with relevant protocols indicated a strong emphasis on laboratory safety.

The administrative facilities were also well-maintained, providing dedicated spaces for office work, meetings, and evidence storage. The overall functionality and organization of the administrative infrastructure contributed to the smooth operation of the department's activities.

The field visit not only provided exposure to the practical aspects of forensic science but also facilitated networking opportunities with experts and professionals in the field. Building connections with professionals can be advantageous for future research collaborations, obtaining guidance, and accessing resources and facilities that may be helpful for research projects.

The visit also inspired the students with research ideas and expanded their knowledge base, which can be beneficial when conducting literature reviews, designing research methodologies, and formulating research questions within the field of forensic science.

In conclusion, the field visit to the Forensic Science Department was a successful and educational experience, providing the students with practical insights into the infrastructure, practical applications, and interdisciplinary nature of forensic science. The well-designed and equipped infrastructure, along with the exposure to experts and professionals, will contribute to enhancing the quality and depth of future research within the field of forensic science
